cost for recycling PMD can exceed economic and environmental benefit. The current collection practice of PMD provides the needed balance of cost vs benefit. However, it was noted that Green Dot in cooperation with local authorities should examine ways to facilitate the implementation of NGO action that support clean cities and a range of social causes.

There needs to be better sensitization of the Reduce-Reuse-Recycle (RRR) principle for decision makers in regards to product standardization and packaging. The less hard-to-recycle or reuse material used in the product packaging the better it is for the waste management.

Educational programmes in schools are very crucial to sensitize youth in relation to appropriate attitudes and practices in waste management, therefore specially designed curricula are necessary.

In congested residential / commercial areas within the city where it is hard to place containers for PMD recycling, the Municipality of Nicosia has made appropriate arrangements for more frequent collection of garbage and recycling material.
